Director's Note

About the play: The ridiculous situations love can put us in are on full display in Twelfth Night. Fabian says, "If this were played upon a stage now, I could condemn it as an improbable fiction," yet we enjoy every crazy moment.

About our cast: When presented with a challenge, the students and parents of our Drama department always rise to the task. Putting on one of Shakespeare's greatest comedies—with singing, music, and swordplay no less—with only 8 weeks to prepare has brought out the best in all of us, and I'm incredibly proud of our DHS actors!

Stage Manager's Note

Nicole has been extremely honored to be able to work with this cast and crew! It has been the most amazing experience working with the most beautiful people she will ever meet. She wants to thank Mr. Hoex for this experience, and to all of the cast and crew:
I love you! (:

Synopsis

After a storm at sea, Viola is shipwrecked on the coast of Illyria. Viola assumes that her twin, Sebastian, died during the wreck and decides that she needs to find work. With the help of a sea captain, Viola disguises herself as a eunuch, Cesario, so she can take up work in Duke Orsino's court. The Duke gets Viola to help him woo his love, Olivia, who wants nothing to do with him. However, craziness ensues when Olivia starts to fall in love with Viola and Viola falls for the Duke.

Meanwhile, Sir Toby Belch, Sir Andrew Aguecheek, the Fool and Maria plot a plan to get back at Olivia's pompous and rude servant Malvolio. Pretending to be Olivia, Maria writes a letter to Malvolio professing her love for him and asks Malvolio to do ridiculous tasks. When Malvolio reads the letter, the tricking officially begins.
